Iqra

Learn to understand the Quran — word by word, without living in a translation.

Open the mushaf → read calmly → tap only what you don't know. A short Urdu tip appears on that word. Everything familiar stays out of the way.

✨ Why Iqra?

Most learners juggle two books: the Arabic mushaf and a full Urdu translation. The eye drifts to Urdu. The Arabic never becomes familiar.

Iqra flips that.

📖 Mushaf stays primary

- Continuous Arabic, page by page
- No permanent translation column
- Grammar only when a pattern helps

💡 Tips stay quiet until you ask

- One tap → one short Urdu tip on that word
- Tap away to dismiss
- Progress grows from real reading

The app succeeds when you need it less — when you can open a mushaf and recognize more of what you see.

Try it in 60 seconds

1. Open the live app — or install the APK for offline phone use
2. From Home, continue into the mushaf
3. Read a few lines · tap one unfamiliar word
4. Later, open My words — that tip is waiting for you

A good daily session is 15–20 minutes: read → tap only when unsure → optionally revise one list.

Home — resume reading, recognize, and progress

Quran reader & word tips

Open Read Quran. Indo-Pak script, page / juz / surah jump, font size, bookmarks, last page remembered. Tools stay in the toolbar — the page stays clean.

Word tips: tap a word → short Urdu tip on that word. Tap elsewhere → gone. Optional full-ayah Urdu exists on demand — recognition first, translation second.

How to learn with it

✓ Do this

- Read first · tap only what you don't know
- Use tips to confirm, not replace thinking
- Revisit pages until forms feel familiar
- Open Qawaid when a pattern keeps repeating

⊘ Skip this

- Treating the app like a translation book
- Collecting tips instead of reading
- Making grammar the main activity

Reading → Recognition → Understanding → Practice →
Reflection → Revision

Iqra is not a chatbot, translation app, grammar course, quiz game, or social network. The Quran stays center stage. Muallim-ul-Quran is the source. Tips only help recognition.
